STATE'S EXHIBIT 2

Dear Matt,

I am sorry. I have wrecked our marriage and I can't get what we had back. I abandoned you when you needed me most. I caused hurt to many people. I caused so much pain to you. You were supposed to heal and you instead had to be a father and a husband to two people with special needs. I was court ordered away and you had to stay with London. You were forced out of your home and forced to your parents house. You could barely walk and you were changing diapers. You had to call 9-11 when I lost things. You yelled at the therapists because I didn't get better. You had to go through Hell and I caused it. London had to go through a lot without me there. Your mom had to step in. Then I came back and I slept through a lot. I am not pitching in all I can. I am hearing voices. You are working on yourself. You said I was an obligation and London was a burden, I want to give you a gift of taking the two away. The voices said that you need this, you need a new, fresh start and I can give it to you. You will be sad for a while, but in the end you will be better off. You can move to Hood River near the friends and you can get a job and write. You can eventually date again. You will be free! Because I love you, I want to free you from the obligation and the burden.

i love you so much and I hurt you beyond repair.
